Okanagan Basin
WATER BOARD

Protecting Okanagan waters starts with simple actions.

Invasive zebra, quagga and golden mussels are closer than you think. If they enter Okanagan waters, they can impact our lakes, beaches, fish, tourism, economy, and way of life.

Visiting the Okanagan?

Your actions can help protect the places you love:

- Stop at ALL watercraft inspection stations.
- Pull the plug — it's the law in B.C.
- Clean. Drain. Dry. every time.
- Coming from an infested area? Rent watercraft locally instead.

Know Someone Visiting?

If they are bringing boats, kayaks, paddleboards, or other watercraft, remind them to stop at all inspection stations or rent locally.

These small actions help protect our lakes for everyone.
